

Tournament To Benefit the Holy Trinity Orthodox Church New Building Fund

Holy Trinity Church in Danbury, Connecticut is building a New Church in the ancient style of the wooden "Tserkvas" found in the mountains of Eastern Europe. Set on a peaceful, wooded hill, gently framing the dramatic architecture of the church, it will be particularly conducive to meditation and prayer.

In keeping with the tserkva theme and to emulate the Churches of the Carpathians the building will be built primarily of wood. Through this approach it also hoped to help link both the church and the visitor to the peaceful surroundings, thus providing an escape from the rush of present day-to-day activities. Since Holy Trinity is also a very tiny, pragmatic and realistic parish, the new church will also fully comply with Connecticut building codes and be built using innovative, cost-effective, modern construction techniques.

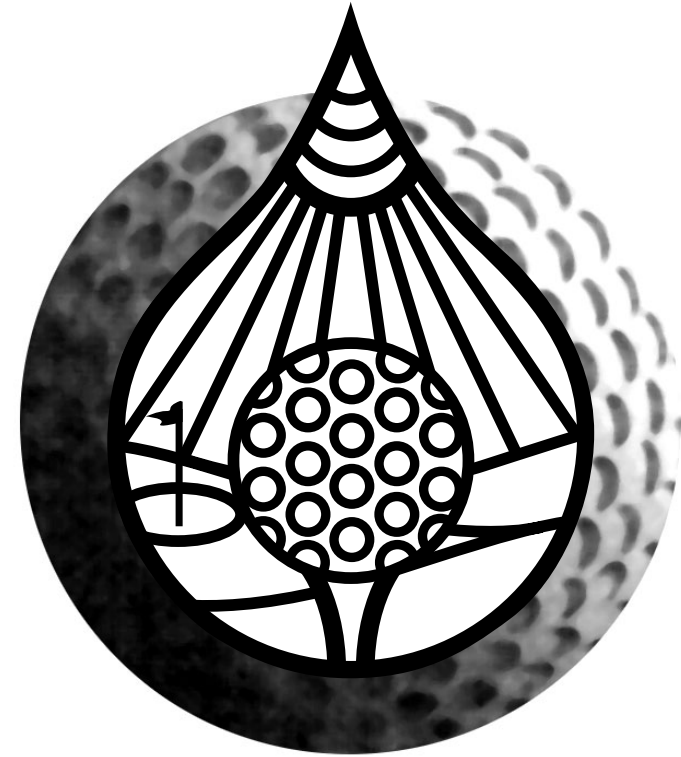

It is in this endeavor that we seek your support, as we enter the final phase of construction.....
